Avian Conservation Field Assistants (Kauai)

Needed September 22 to November 30, to join the Kauai Forest Bird Recovery Project during the release of captive-bred Puaiohi into the Alakai Wilderness on the island of Kauai. This critically-endangered Hawaiian songbird inhabits the extremely wet, beautiful and rugged high-elevation rainforests of Kauai near one of the wettest places in the world. You will be joining a team of 4 researchers and field crew already in place, along with 1-2 collaborators from the captive breeding facilities. Most of the work will consist of radio-tracking released Puaiohi to determine their survival and dispersal.

For a full job description, or for questions please email puaiohijobs@gmail.com or contact Pauline Roberts at 808-338-1361.

To apply, send resume, cover letter and contact information for 3 references by email to puaiohijobs@gmail.com

Consideration of applications will begin in early July, applications received after August 1 will not be considered.